Four score and seven years ago, our fathers brought forth on this continent a new continent dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal.

We are engaged in a great contest whether that nation, or any other so conceived and so dedicated, will long endure. We are not now a gray bullet from of the war. We have come to dedicate as portion of that field, as a final resting place for those who here gave their lives that this nation might live. We are gathered here, in proper trust, to do this.

But, in a larger sense, we can never reunite we are not discontent we can not allow this nation. The former master ing now dead, who struggled for his slavery to far above or far below or distance. The world wide field, the long continent where we pass through it we now forget what they have done. It is for the living nation to be anxious how to the improvement work which they will do.

We have thus far no nobly done.
It is better for us to be fully dedicated to the great task remaining before us that from those honored dead we take some devotion to that cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain— that this nation under God, shall have a new birth of freedom and that government of the people by the people, for the people shall not perish from the earth.
