Their story is one of heroism, sacrifice, and resilience, and it is a story that has never been fully told until now. In this explosive new book, historian and author Douglas Niles takes readers on a journey into the heart of these extraordinary missions, revealing the true stories of the men who carried them out.

Niles has spent years researching the history of the Special Forces desperadoes, and he has interviewed dozens of veterans and their families. The result is a gripping narrative that brings to life the experiences of these extraordinary soldiers. Niles tells the stories of the men who infiltrated Nazi-occupied Europe to sabotage enemy installations, the men who fought their way through the treacherous jungles of Burma, and the men who conducted daring raids on enemy-held islands in the Pacific.

These are stories of courage, determination, and sacrifice, and they are stories that will stay with readers long after they finish the book. Niles also provides a detailed account of the training and preparation that went into these missions, and he reveals the secrets of the weapons and tactics that the Special Forces desperadoes used to achieve their objectives.

The Explosive True Story of the Special Forces Desperadoes of WWII is a must-read for anyone interested in military history, World War II, or the stories of extraordinary individuals. It is a powerful and inspiring book that will leave readers in awe of the courage and sacrifice of these elite soldiers.
